BOSTON'S OWN MR. BASEBALL

THOMAS A. YAWKEY
President

"Boston's own Mr. Baseball" . . . that's what Richard Cardinal Cushing called Tom Yawkey a couple of years ago. And if Red Sox fans needed any additional proof of Mr. Yawkey's constant aim to improve the fortunes of the Red Sox, they had it last Fall when he dramatically reorganized the administration of the club to bring the Red Sox back into contention for the American League pennant.

Thomas Austin Yawkey was born in Detroit, Feb. 21, 1903. His foster-father, William H. Yawkey, the famed industrialist, was President and owner of the Detroit Tigers in Tom's early years, so his indoctrination into baseball was swift. That was a period when the Tigers had many of the super stars of the game, and baseball became young Tom's game.

He played himself at Irving School and at Yale University, and even today continues to work out with employees in fast-paced "pepper" games at Fenway Park when the team is on the road.

In 1933, Tom Yawkey purchased the Red Sox and Fenway Park. The once-proud Sox were really in the doldrums. In the previous 14 years, they hadn't risen out of the second division and had finished last in nine of those years. The park was badly in need of repairs, and a rebuilding program was immediately put into effect for both the team and the park.

Expense was no object and before long Fenway fans were thrilling to the exploits of Lefty Grove, Jimmy Foxx, Bobby Doer, Ted Williams, Tex Hughson, Vern Stephens, Johnny Pesky, Mel Parnell and countless others. Boston became and still is one of the most solid franchises in the game under Yawkey's direction.

In his 28 years of leadership, the club has finished in the second division only eight times. There have been disappointments—only one pennant to show in 1946, and heartbreaking second place finishes in 1948 and 1949—but his interest in baseball has never wavered.

During the off-season he is in constant touch with Fenway Park. He keeps information about individuals in the farm systems at his fingertips, and in season he's a familiar sight in his roof box at Fenway watching proceedings closely.

Fenway Park itself at his insistence, has become one of the most comfortable, cleanest and most attractive baseball parks in the country.

This then is certainly "Boston's own Mr. Baseball" . . . Thomas A. Yawkey. And ready to direct another resurgence of the Red Sox following last September's reorganization.

The first Greater Boston man to become front office leader of the Red Sox, Dick O'Connell moved up to Executive Vice-President last September, succeeding Stanley R. "Bucky" Harris. Harris had also held the title of General Manager, but under the reorganization that title was eliminated.

Dick had been Business Manager of the Red Sox and director of all park operations for several years prior to his promotion. In his new capacity, he will continue to direct the business part of the organization and will also cooperate closely with manager Mike Higgins in directing major league personnel and with Minor League Director Neil Mahoney in the development and direction of the Red Sox farm system.

A native of Winthrop, Mass., O'Connell graduated from Boston College in 1937, and received his Master's Degree from the same school in 1938. After playing both baseball and football at Winthrop High and Boston College, he became a teacher-coach before entering the U. S. Navy in 1942.

As an officer in Naval Intelligence in the Pacific Area, he directed units in charge of enemy base intelligence and photographic interpretation on the staff of the Joint Intelligence Center directly under the Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet. In that capacity he played a vital part in the planning of all Pacific invasions from Tarawa in 1943 to Okinawa in 1945.

O'Connell joined the Red Sox organization in 1946 as Business Manager of the Lynn Red Sox in the old New England League. He came to Fenway Park in 1948 and has steadily climbed in the administration.

In addition to his Red Sox duties, he was also recognized as one of New England's top football officials prior to becoming vice-president last September.

Seldom has a man come to one of the top spots in major league baseball with a more thorough knowledge of the intricate operations surrounding a major league franchise. In his several years with the Red Sox he has at various times directed every phase of Fenway Park's workings.

It's characteristic of Dick O'Connell that he speak straight from the shoulder. When asked what Red Sox fans can expect from the front office reorganization, his reply has been,

"We'll let the results do the talking for us."

Those that know him intimately are sure the Red Sox are on their way back up the ladder under his direction.

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT

RICHARD H. "DICK" O'CONNELL

FRONT OFFICE PERSONNEL

Neil T. Mahoney – Director, Minor League System

Moved into the top spot, directing the activities of the six Red Sox farm clubs and the far flung scouting system, last Fall. Another Greater Boston native, Neil Mahoney was one of the area's top semipro catchers known and respected for his all round knowledge of baseball. Graduated from Northeastern University and later coached baseball at Bowdoin College, before joining the Red Sox organization as a scout in 1939. He was supervisor of Eastern scouting before being promoted to Minor League Director. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast League. Mr. Mahoney makes his home in Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Joseph T. Cummiskey – Treasurer

A graduate of Suffolk Law School, Joe Cummiskey had wide experience in both law and accounting before joining the Red Sox organization in 1948. He served as a Lieutenant-Commander in the Navy during World War II and now handles many of the complicated legal and financial affairs connected with a modern major league baseball operation. He lives in Belmont, Mass.

Thomas B. Dowd – Traveling Secretary

One of New England's best known toastmasters and after-dinner speakers, Tom Dowd is now the senior road secretary in the American League. His duties have become increasingly involved because of the problems in moving the entire Red Sox ball club from coast to coast under American League expansion. For many years following his graduation from Holy Cross he was one of the best known National Football League officials, and in recent years was a football radio commentator. He lives in West Roxbury, Mass.

William C. Crowley – Director, Public Relations

Became Public Relations Director last Fall, after serving for three seasons as one of Curt Gowdy's broadcasting partners. A native of Dorchester, Crowley was a World War II bomber pilot prior to his graduation from Boston University. He also holds a Master's Degree from the University of Minnesota. A newspaperman, prior to entering radio in 1949, for the past several years he has served as Sports Information Director and Instructor in Economics at Holy Cross College. He resides in Needham, Mass.

John M. Malaney – Associate Director, Public Relations

He chronicled the activities of the Red Sox for many, many years before joining the Red Sox staff as Assistant to Joe McKenney, now the American League publicity director. Jack Malaney was President of the Baseball Writer's Association of America in 1944, and after serving the Red Sox as Public Relations Director in 1959 and 1960, now continues as associate. His home is in West Roxbury, Mass.

THE RED SOX MANAGER

Mike Higgins is actually in his sixth season as Red Sox manager, after returning to replace Bill Juries last June 14.

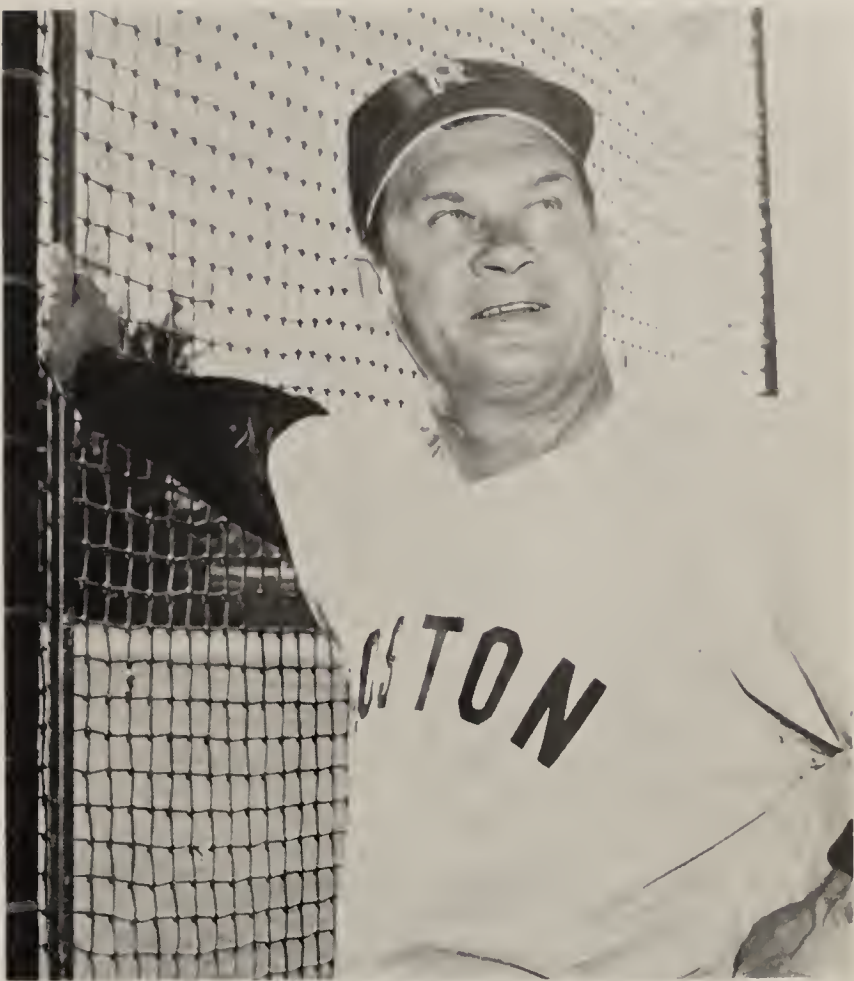

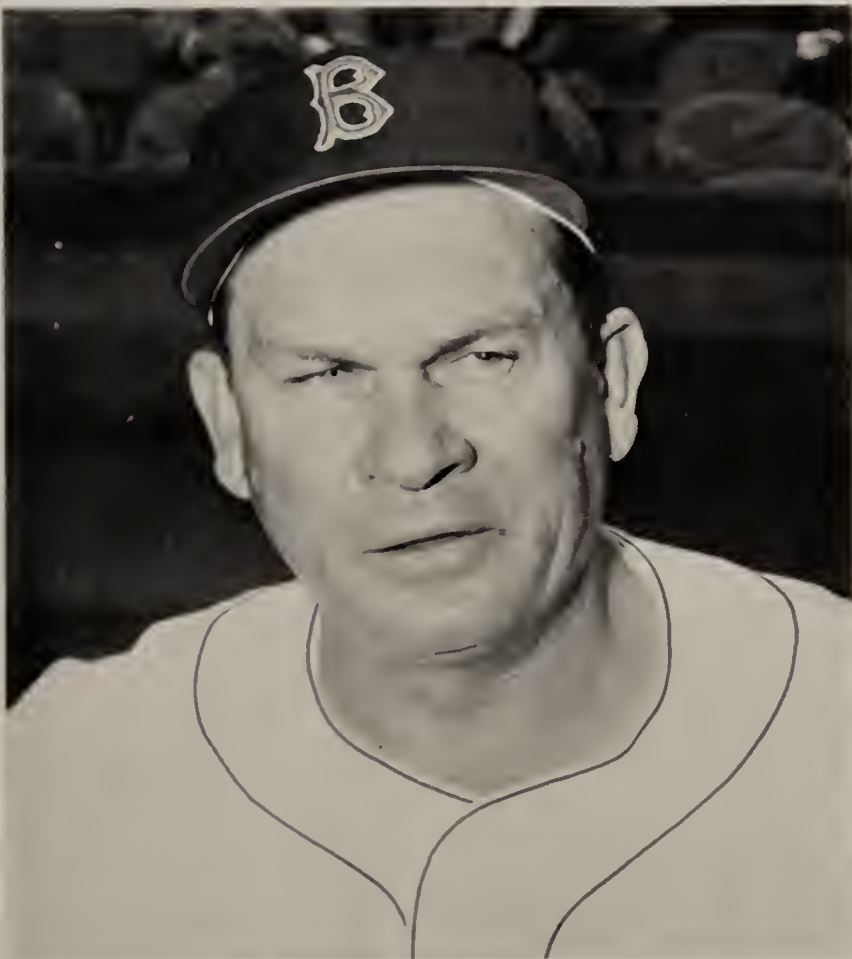

He took over the Red Sox reins in 1955 after serving for eight years as a manager of Red Sox minor league clubs, steadily moving up the ladder from Roanoke to Birmingham to Louisville.

When he led the Red Sox to a fourth place finish in 1955, with an especially strong second half, he was named "Manager of the Year." The Red Sox, under his direction, also finished fourth in 1956, third in 1957 and 1958, but after a poor start in 1959, he was replaced by Juries in July.

Mike was born May 27, 1909 in Red Oak, Texas, and was graduated from the University of Texas in 1930. He immediately joined the Philadelphia Athletics and as "Pinky" Higgins he became one of baseball's best third basemen and most feared hitters. He was traded to the Red Sox in 1937, and after two good seasons, moved over to the Detroit Tigers.

He stayed with the Tigers, except for a year in the Navy in 1945, until he was traded back to the Red Sox in May, 1946 and helped the Sox win the American League pennant.

A "Man's man," Mike commands the respect of his players. A very patient man, he is recognized throughout baseball circles as one of the soundest strategists in the game. He is especially admired for his ability to handle his pitching staff to guarantee the right man rested and ready for each game during the season.

Under the Red Sox reorganization of the Red Sox last Fall, Mike works closely with Executive Vice-President Dick O'Connell on all problems dealing with major league personnel. He is sure the Red Sox will start climbing the ladder from their 1960 seventh place finish.

Higgins makes his off-season home in Dallas, Texas with his wife and two daughters.

THE COACHES

Rudolph Preston "Rudy" York

Born: August 17, 1913, Ragland, Ala. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Cartersville, Ga.

"The Chief" is in his third season as Red Sox coach and again will be stationed at first base. Well-remembered by baseball fans as the long time slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers. He, like Mike Higgins, was a member of the Red Sox pennant winning club in 1946.

A keen student of hitting, he was a batting instructor in the Red Sox minor league system in 1958. He has helped in the development of several of the younger members of the club with Gary Geiger probably being his prize pupil.

Salvatore A. "Sal" Maglie

Born: April 26, 1917, Niagara Falls, N.Y. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Niagara Falls, N.Y.

After a long and successful career with the Giants, the Yankees and others, "The Barber" became a pitching coach midway in the 1959 season with the St. Louis Cardinals. This will be his second season as Red Sox pitching coach.

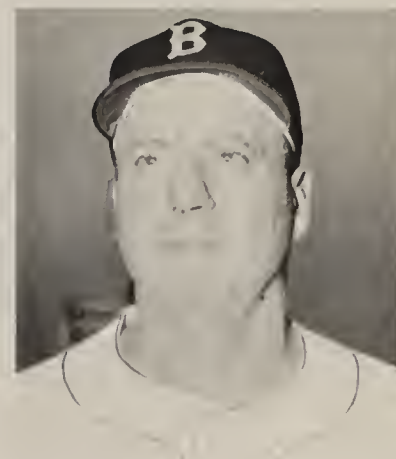

Always known as one of the headiest pitchers in the game, Sal's advice proved very helpful in 1960, notably to Bill Monbouquette and Billy Muffet.

William J. "Billy" Herman

Born: July 7, 1909, New Albany, Ind. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Vero Beach, Fla.

Mike Higgins rates him as "one of the finest third base coaches in baseball," and he will be sending them in from third for the second year in a row with the Red Sox.

He is rated as one of the great National League second basemen of all time with the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1931 to 1946. He was a Dodger coach from 1952 through 1957 and with the Milwaukee Braves in 1958-59. One of better golfers in baseball.

Leonard J. "Lennie" Okrie

Born: July 16, 1924, Detroit, Mich. Bats and Throws: Right Home: Linden, North Carolina.

The latest member of the Red Sox coaching staff, Len will be bullpen coach and catcher.

Started professional career as a catcher in 1942. Broke in with Washington in 1948 after being drafted, and was with them, on and off, until traded to Red Sox in 1951. He was sent to Louisville where he worked under Mike Higgins. Started as minor league manager with the Red Sox in 1954 at Bluefield, West Virginia, and last two seasons has directed Corning in the New York-Penn league.

TOM

Born: September 3, 1931, Wadesboro, N. C. Ht.: 6'1"; Wt.: 175 lbs. Brown eyes; Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Cheraw, S. C.

Has pitched seven complete seasons for Red Sox after one year (1951) in a Class D league (No. Carolina State) . . . Under .500 mark for second time in his career last season. But second only to Red Sox leading pitcher Bill Monbouquette in number of innings pitched, games started and completed . . . Won 6, lost 8 at home and won 4, lost 7 on road, with Cleveland, Baltimore and New York the only teams he did not at least break even with . . . Great curve ball pitching gained him 19-3 record his first year in pro baseball and a big league chance after two years in military service . . . Married and has a son and daughter.

A past to be proud of . . .

This was the first electric Range produced by Westinghouse . . . and one of the first produced by anyone anywhere. It was the forerunner of an outstanding series of much improved Ranges and a full line of other major appliances that were to flow from Westinghouse plants, bringing new advantages, new convenience and new leisure to the American public. From the beginning, Westinghouse was a leader, recognized for the sturdy and enduring quality of all of the appliances bearing its name.

An exciting future . . .

The progress that this new Westinghouse Range depicts is symbolic of the future that Westinghouse offers to its dealers and to the public. Soon a homemaker can pick up a telephone wherever she may be and order her range to start getting dinner ready. Equally revolutionary developments in all kinds of appliances will be forthcoming from Westinghouse in the days ahead . . . for Westinghouse research and Westinghouse ingenuity are teaming up to make the future truly exciting. As a Westinghouse owner, you're assured of a vital share of the exciting and wonderful days to come.

Became surprise member of Red Sox pitching staff last season . . . Had been acquired by Minneapolis from San Francisco and invited to participate in Red Sox spring training in 1960 . . . He was returned to Minneapolis, but his ability was remembered by pitching coach Sal Maglie and when the Red Sox had great need for pitching help, he was acquired by the Red Sox on June 22, 1960 . . . He got into 23 games, starting 14; he completed only four and had a 6-4 record although it could have been much better with more help from his mates . . . His 3.24 earned run average bettered on Red Sox only by reliefer Mike Fornieles . . . Billy also has pitched for St. Louis Cardinals, and will be starting his 13th year as a pitcher.

CHET

Made a comeback following arm trouble after having been one of the most promising young southpaw pitchers in the game . . . The son of a father who pitched for Pittsburgh, New York and Philadelphia Phillies from 1926 through 1932, Chet was signed by the Boston Braves and started with the Evansville club in 1949 . . . He spent 1950 with Milwaukee, then in the American Association, and with the parent Braves in 1951 . . . He had an 11-8 mark in 33 games and his earned run average of 2.88 was the best in the league; he spent the next two years in military service and came back to the Milwaukee Braves . . . in 1956 arm trouble slowed him up and he went to the minor leagues in an attempt to work out his difficulty, staying out of baseball in 1958 . . . He asked for a chance to prove himself at Minneapolis in 1959 . . . he was released to Vancouver in the Coast League for 1960 and the Red Sox acquired him late in the season.

The 1 out of 20
that didn't get smoked

There's a lot of satisfaction in pointing out something good to a friend. That's why it sometimes happens that one cigarette out of a pack of Dual Filter Tareytons never does get smoked.

People open it to show its remarkable Dual Filter containing Activated Charcoal. They may not know why it works so well, but they do know this: It brings out the best taste of the best tobaccos. Yes, Tareyton delivers the flavor . . . and the Dual Filter does it!

Try a pack of Dual Filter Tareyton. We believe the extra pleasure they bring will soon have you passing the good word to your friends.

Tareyton delivers the flavor . . .

DUAL FILTER DOES IT!

HERE'S HOW: 1. It combines a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL . . . definitely proved to make the taste of a cigarette mild and smooth . . .

2. with a pure white outer filter. Together they select and balance the flavor elements in the smoke. Tareyton's flavor-balance gives you the best taste of the best tobaccos.

Was the most desirable pitcher the New England area has produced in years and nearly all major league teams were interested in him . . . Signed into Red Sox system soon after being graduated from high school and was assigned to Waterloo, Class D, for a few games, then moved up to Raleigh in Class B . . . Noted for his extra knowledge of how to pitch and for his superb control.

An eleven year veteran of the major leagues, Joe Ginsberg was signed as a free agent in mid-May after he had been released by the Chicago White Sox. The Red Sox became the sixth American League club that Ginsberg had played for, and immediately became a favorite with Boston fans with his hustle and a few key base-hits.

Originally signed by the Tigers, he had played for Cleveland, Kansas City, Baltimore and the White Sox before coming to Boston. Married with one son.

Had the odd distinction of being traded to the Red Sox TWICE in 1960 . . . First time was during spring training when Cleveland swapped him to Boston for Sammy White, but White decided to retire from baseball and the deal was called off . . . In mid-June, another deal was made in which he again was traded to Boston along with outfielder Carroll Hardy in exchange for Marty Keough and Ted Bowsfield . . . Had reputation as hard hitting catcher and lived up to it with a .298 average in the 80 games he was in.

Appears ready to fulfill the promise he gave when signed by the Red Sox before he reached this 18th birthday . . . He was recalled from Spokane of the Coast League July 26, 1960 . . . Got into 28 Red Sox games and batted for .306 with 19 hits for 34 bases and, in general, impressed with his all around performance . . . Brought into Boston after being signed in 1955, but spent 1956 and 1957 in military service . . . Had some trouble recovering bating form when he returned, but his .292 average at Spokane made it seem he was back in form when he was recalled.

Proved most capable third baseman in baseball after establishing himself in 1957 . . . Has been voted to last four consecutive All-Star teams; has played in all but three games in four regular seasons . . . Just missed hitting .300 in 1957, 1958 and 1959; had 185 hits in each of 1957, 1958 and 15 homers in each of those seasons, batting .292 and .295 . . . In 1959 did not have as many hits, but slammed out 19 homers and batted in 92 runs, second on Red Sox only to league leader Jackie Jensen . . . Had an off year last season, making only 161 hits for a .271 batting average, but was topped only by Vic Wertz, and by Wertz and Ted Williams in homers; led team in total bases and two base hits, and second only to batting champion Pete Runnels in number of hits made on Red Sox.

A fast start plus a solid hitting month of July helped Don get his highest major league batting average in 1960 . . . Career almost ended when he was hit over left eye in the seventh inning of a two-night twin bill with Detroit, Aug. 30, 1960, by Jim Bunning, the Detroit pitcher; played few more games after he returned to action in September . . . Where year ago he was second only to Luis Aparicio in most shortstopping work, was not considered to have had his normal fielding year in 1960 . . . Has been regular Red Sox shortstop since start of 1956, when he came up from Louisville, except for 1957 season when he was in military service.

Born: Feb. 9, 1925, York, Pa. Ht.: 6'; Wt.: 203 lbs. Brown eyes; Brown hair. Bats: Throws: Right. Home: Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Made another fine comeback with the Red Sox in 1960 . . . Had 125 hits in 131 games (he pinch hit in 21 games) and drove in 103 runs which clutch hitting in itself was remarkable — at one stretch he had almost as many runs-batted-in as he did hits . . . His 103 ranked him third in the league in RBIs . . . Only Williams topped him in home runs on his own team . . . Came to Boston in December, 1958, along with Gary Geiger, for Jim Piersall . . . His playing feats in 1956 were voted worthy of "Comeback of Year" honors following a non-paralyzing polio attack; suffered broken ankle in spring training season of 1958 which was feared would end his career . . . Was originally signed into Detroit system.

Born: May 18, 1933, Sturgis, So. Dakota. Ht.: 6'; Wt.: 190 lbs. Brown hair; Blue eyes. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Boulder, Colo.

Had the distinction during the 1960 season of becoming the only player ever to pinch hit for Ted Williams who fouled a ball down onto his foot and was unable to complete his time at bat . . . Came to Red Sox along with catcher Russ Nixon from Cleveland in swap for Marty Keough and Ted Bowsfield . . . Considered brilliant prospect early in 1958 when he had to undergo an appendectomy and then asked to be sent to San Diego to play regularly . . . Later had Jimmy Piersall to beat out for job and played very little . . . Was back and end for professional football 49ers in 1955 season . . . Had starred in football, baseball and track at University of Colorado; is one of the fastest men in baseball . . . Married and has son and daughter.

Reputedly the most natural batsman who has come into baseball in years . . . told by Ted Williams, "Don't let anybody change your hitting style" . . . Was spotted playing high school ball in which he had a career average of .512; once hit two home runs in one inning in a game against Eastport; was further followed in semi-pro ball in which he played on the same team with his father . . . Signed to Red Sox contract while in freshman year at Notre Dame University because of a change in the bonus rule . . . At Raleigh in the Carolina League his first year out and was batting champion of the league with an average 64 points higher than the second batter . . . Moved to Minneapolis for his sophomore year and changed from second baseman to an outfielder . . . Lost batting championship on final day of season . . . Was married in January, 1960.

GARY

Born: April 4, 1937, Sand Ridge, Ill. Ht.: 6'; Wt.: 165 lbs. Brown eyes; Black hair. Bats: Left; Throws: Right. Home: Sand Ridge, Ill.

At the peak of his young baseball career, batting .302, and playing sensationally in right field when he suffered a collapsed right lung July 28, 1960. His recovery was speedy, but it was deemed best that he not play any more baseball last season . . . Came to Boston with Vic Wertz in deal with Cleveland for Jimmy Piersall . . . Was surprise star of the 1959 Red Sox spring camp and voted outstanding player of that conditioning period . . . Just before he was stricken ill last summer, he had hit in 10 straight games and had hit homers in each of his last three games . . . Married Feb. 18, 1961.

Born: March 7, 1927, San Francisco, Calif. Ht.: 5'11"; Wt.: 195 lbs. Blue eyes; Blond hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Crystal Bay, Nevada.

Brilliant outfielder will be making comeback this season . . . Decided to stay out of baseball last year for personal reasons, but announced near the end of the season that he would return this season . . . Had been a batting reliable for the Red Sox since he was acquired from Washington in a trade Dec. 9, 1953 . . . Has driven in over 100 runs in five of the six years for a total of 667 runs, a total not equalled by any other player . . . In 1959 season he led his team in runs-batted-in (112), homers, (28), and stolen bases (20) . . . Has been one of the finest right fielders in baseball, has great throwing arm and is exceedingly fast afoot.

Thousands of baseball fans, young and old, sent contributions in to Ted Williams on the occasion of "Jimmy Fund Day" on September 24. On hand to honor Ted by contributing to his favorite charity were leaders in religious, civic and political circles and Ted's favorite fans, the kids. There could be only one lucky winner of the replica of the ball and bat with which Ted hit his historic 500th homerun, but the name of John J. Norton of Egypt, Mass. is also engraved in baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown as that lucky winner.

BOSTON'S BASEBALL WRITERS

One of the busiest spots in the American League, the Press Box of Fenway Park. The hanging booth in front is the home of Curt Gowdy and his broadcasting and telecasting crew during the season. Visiting broadcasters use the booths beside the Press Box.

There's a saying around the American League—"The most intelligent baseball fans in the country are found in New England." Some will deny this, but many will defend the statement. Those that defend the statement point to the fact that no baseball team is covered more intensively by the press than the Red Sox. New England fans, following the fortunes of the Red Sox in the daily press, actually do get a great deal more information about their favorite club than fans in other sections.

Covering the Red Sox is really a year round job for many Boston writers, as well as writers from adjacent cities. They follow the club to spring training, are with the team throughout the season, track trade rumors at the World Series and are also on hand at minor and major league meetings.

When the Red Sox are at home, anywhere from two to five men from all papers in the area are on hand covering the game, doing a clubhouse story, a human interest feature or covering for a major news syndicate. This, of course, makes the Fenway Park press box one of the busiest places in the league.

Here is a list of the Boston chapter members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, one of the largest chapters in the country and presently boasting the national president, Ed Rumill of the Christian Science Monitor and the secretary, Hy Hurwitz of the Boston Globe. Bill Liston of the Boston Traveler is the current chairman of the Boston chapter.

"THIS IS THE RED SOX BASEBALL NETWORK"

Another reason why New England baseball fans are among the nation's best informed has been the continual high quality of their baseball broadcasts.

Curt Gowdy is heading up the Red Sox broadcasting crew for his 11th straight season in 1961. In addition to his Red Sox broadcasts and telecasts which have brought him national attention, Curt was probably the busiest major sportscaster in the country in 1960. His recognized knowledge of all major sports brought him assignments at the All Star Game, the full schedule of NCAA football games last Fall, and NCAA college basketball games this past winter, and he is now recognized as the nation's top all round sportscaster.

Gowdy graduated from the University of Wyoming where he won fame as an outstanding basketball player. After a couple of seasons in Oklahoma City, he joined Mel Allen with the New York Yankees for two seasons before taking over the Red Sox position in 1951. He makes his home in Wellesley Hills, Mass.

NED MARTIN

A new voice and a new personality is being seen and heard on New England's Television screens and on radios this year as Ned Martin from Charleston, West Virginia joins the Red Sox broadcasting crew.

A Pennsylvania native, Ned Martin graduated from Duke University after service in the Marines during World War II. At Duke he played varsity baseball, and moved into radio after a spell in the advertising and magazine fields. He was selected to join Curt Gowdy's crew because of his excellent work during the past few years with the Charleston Senators in the American Association. He makes his home in Wellesley.

CURT GOWDY

ART GLEESON

Art Gleeson returns for his second year with the Red Sox, after winning many friends with his work in 1960. Gleeson, a former professional player and front office executive, has one of the broadest baseball backgrounds of any member of the radio profession. He was director of sports for the Mutual Broadcasting System for several years, when he aired the Mutual "Game of the Day."

Very few broadcasters have a wider acquaintance among present and former great players than this veteran of submarine service in World War II from Portland, Oregon. He lives in Brookline, Mass.

RED SOX FARM SYSTEM

Mrs. Eleanor Mossman—Secretary, Edward F. Kenney—Executive Secretary.

Under the direction of Neil Mahoney, new Minor League Director, the Red Sox Farm system started to pop last winter.

First, Mahoney went all through the country interviewing all Red Sox scouts and managers, hearing their gripes and grievances. Changes were made and the Red Sox farm system gradually underwent considered changes.

Johnny Pesky, former great Red Sox shortstop was brought back into the organization to manage the Sox top farm club in Seattle in the Pacific Coast League. Some scouts were let go, others found their territories expanded, some contracted. Former outstanding southpaw, Mel Parnell, came back to manage the important Alpine club in the Sophomore League. Ted Williams was assigned to work closely with Mahoney in player development.

All of these changes should bring Red Sox player development back to the point where the major league team will be contending strongly for the American League pennant again.

A staff of 29 experienced Red Sox scouts (see opposite page) is presently scouring the country for the best of the nation's young baseball talent to bring the Red Sox back to their former proud position in the American League.

The man who keeps this complex system at his fingertips is genial Ed Kenney, former Boston College star ballplayer, who keeps track of hundreds of Red Sox farmhands in clubs across the country.

The young men who are fortunate enough to become part of the Red Sox farm system will know that they will have the advantage of the best possible teaching on their way to a hoped-for major league career.

That will be assured under Neil Mahoney's direction. These minor leaguers train under the best possible conditions at Deland and Ocala, Florida with such teachers as former great Red Sox players, Bobby Doerr, Denny Galehouse, Don Lenhardt, Will Nixon, Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams.

Throughout their seasons they will be constantly checked by their managers and occasionally by veterans like Doerr and Williams.

If these youngsters have the necessary abilities to come to Fenway Park, it will soon be discovered, and he will be on his way to fame and fortune with the Red Sox.

BEHIND THE SCENES AT FENWAY PARK

It takes hundreds of people working the year around to make it possible to field a major league baseball team in such beautiful and comfortable surroundings as Fenway Park affords. The cheers and attention are centered on the men on the field, but here's a salute to some of the folks who help make the fans, the players and everyone comfortable.

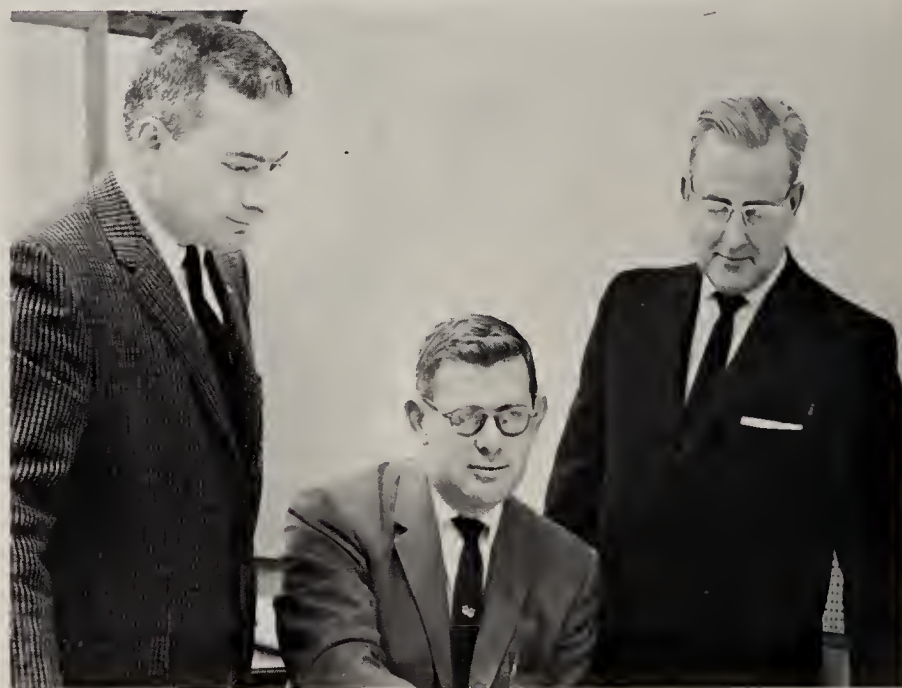

Many fans will remember Milt Bolling as a very promising player, whose major league career was cut short by an injured arm. The former Red Sox shortstop returned to the Red Sox a couple of months ago as an executive assistant to work closely with Dick O'Connell in both the business and personnel departments of the club's organization. Milt was a successful trucking executive in the South before he decided to return to baseball.

Fenway Park has been aptly described as one of the most beautiful and most comfortable parks in baseball. The man responsible for keeping Fenway among the leaders in beauty and comfort is Park Superintendent Dan Marcotte. The new box seat arrangement was accomplished under his direction and he directs the year-long care of Fenway's beautiful diamond and stands.

Every busy and successful executive has a competent and efficient secretary. Dick O'Connell, Tom Yawkey and other Red Sox executives rely heavily on the talented Mary Trank. If someone or something is needed, Mary will locate it in a hurry to help keep the Red Sox on the move.

Whether you get your tickets in advance, by mail or at the Fenway Park box office, these three men know about you. Arthur Muscato (left) heads up the mail order department; Jim Ryan (center) heads up the whole ticket operation; and Paul Cunniff, right, directs the ticket promotion department.

"This Is Fenway Park"—Helen Robinson's friendly greeting answers thousands of calls at the busy Fenway Park switchboard during the season, especially when there's a threat of rain.

Recognized as one of the finest men in his field in the nation, Jock Fadden has produced amazing results in his years with the Red Sox. A complete student of his profession, Jack has won the admiration of every athlete he has ministered to for his competence and patience. He has also been the trainer of Harvard University for forty years.

There are plenty of blisters in spring training. Here Jock ministers to the blistered toe of a member of the Red Sox in his training room in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The Red Sox are also fortunate to have the services of the veteran Win Green as assistant trainer. Working with Jack Fadden, Win helps to keep the players healthy.

Moving a major league's equipment and caring for it is a full-time job. Here Vince Orlando (left), who cares for the visiting clubhouse during the regular season at Fenway Park, and equipment manager Dan Fitzpatrick get the trunks ready for the 2900-mile trip from Boston to Scottsdale, Arizona.

Press Box aide Tom McCarthy probably knows more sportswriters than any man in the United States. At football, basketball games and just about any sport that is played in the Greater Boston area, Tom has become an invaluable help to news, radio and TV working personnel. Here he is packing publicity equipment for Scottsdale, Arizona, where he directs spring training working press headquarters.

Ready for action! Equipment manager Don Fitzpatrick gets everything ready for another season. "Fitzie," a former Red Sox boy on the pennant winning team of 1946, has the responsible job of taking care of all the Red Sox uniforms and playing equipment.

TED WILLIAMS — A PROUD CHAMPION

On September 28, 1960, the active playing career of one of the greatest hitters and one of the most controversial men in the history of baseball came to a close. The end came dramatically with a tremendous home run off the pitching of Jack Fisher of the Baltimore Orioles.

For Ted Williams, it was home run number 521, ranking him third among all-time players behind immortals Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx, despite missing five active seasons at the peak of his career to service as a Marine pilot.

Sixth all-time in runs batted in, second in bases on balls, the last major league player to hit .400, second all-time in slugging percentage, sixth in extra base hits, the record goes on and on.

Colorful and controversial, Ted Williams continues in the Red Sox organization as an executive assistant. He was a batting coach in Spring training and his vast knowledge of the game will continue to help the Red Sox, even though his big bat will be missing.

Here are some of his career highlights and the highlights of Ted's final active year in the sport. . . .

RED SOX JUNIOR BOOSTERS

In appreciation for the wonderful support the Red Sox have always received from the youngsters of New England, and especially from purchasers of the 1961 Yearbook, the Red Sox are happy to offer to their "Junior Boosters" these coupons. Each coupon will entitle any youngster, 12 years old or younger, to a reserved seat at Fenway Park, for any afternoon game, Monday through Friday, during the 1961 season, provided the youngster is accompanied by an adult. The free admission, made possible by Yearbook advertisers, listed on the back of the coupons, is good for the youngster only.

The bearer of this coupon, a Red Sox "Junior Baaster," 12 years old or younger, and accompanied by an adult, is entitled to a reserved seat at Fenway Park for any weekday afternoon game, Monday through Friday, except holidays, during the 1961 season.

The coupon must be presented for exchange at the time the accompanying adult purchases his or her ticket at Gate B at Fenway Park. The coupon cannot be used to receive tickets in advance, and only one "Junior Baaster" coupon will be honored for each adult ticket purchased.
